

PRESS RELEASE

Pressac and CableNet sign agreement

Voice, Data, ADSL & Structured Cabling manufacturer Pressac Communications Limited has signed an agreement with CableNet Training awarding their 'Approved Training Provider' status.

This mutually beneficial agreement was confirmed at the beginning of February 2005 and will see CableNet deliver a range of Pressac branded one and two day structured cabling courses as well as CableNet's own-branded multimode termination programme and a new 'voice and data made simple' course.

Paul Kennedy, marketing and sales manager at Pressac Communications Limited said "With lots of exciting product launches for 2005 including inticasa home automation and Zeta Fibre optical fibre, Pressac needs a strong training proposition so we took the decision to outsource training to add value and expertise. We selected CableNet for this important accreditation as they are Europe's leading training provider in the communications sector and are able to meet our exact requirements for now and the future."

Andrew Stevens, CableNet's managing director said "With many new applications being delivered such as the deployment of converged voice and data, the demand on the infrastructure is again highlighted and the need for highly trained and qualified installers has risen sharply."

Stevens added "We are delighted to be working with a company that is globally recognised as an innovative leader in the design and manufacture of communications products and systems."

Training will commence in March 2005, with CableNet instructors delivering programmes to Pressac's customers across the UK as well as in Europe and Dubai.
